

Southern Homecoming

DESIGNER

Haskell Matheny, ASID
Sheila Stubbs
Haskell Interiors
85 1st St., NE
Cleveland, TN 37311
423.472.6409

SPECIAL FEATURES

Lowcountry style, integrating of owners' antiques, backsplash of handmade and hand-painted tile from Portugal, pair of antique hand-painted Deft and Pewter chandeliers

DIMENSIONS

25' x 16'

PRODUCTS USED

Cabinetry: Jay Rambo Co. inset
Flooring: Oak hardwood
Countertops: Silestone Lyra
Sink(s): Whitehaus farmhouse
Faucet(s): Delta Brizo
Cooktop: KitchenAid
Oven: KitchenAid
Refrigerator: KitchenAid
Dishwasher: KitchenAid
Lighting: Antique hand-painted Deft and Pewter chandeliers
Wallcovering: Glidden paint in Garden Green
Backsplash: Handmade, hand-painted tile from Portugal
Hardware: Top Knobs English Porcelain

MEMBERSHIP

SEN Design Group

PHOTOGRAPHER

Med Dement

AFTER MOVING AWAY 12 years ago, this couple returned to their Tennessee roots by purchasing a historic home built in 1929 that was located in the neighborhood they had previously lived for 29 years. While the home already imbued special meaning and a sense of nostalgia, what it lacked was modern amenities.

The owners got busy adding a new wing to the home, including a decked-out kitchen and breakfast area. Designers Haskell Matheny, ASID, and Sheila Stubbs of Haskell Interiors were tasked with the challenge of blending the new addition with the original home while infusing the specific style this Southern couple desired.

In that respect, it was important to the lady of the house that the new space embodied the Lowcountry style that she came to love while living on an intercostal waterway in South Carolina. To achieve this, the designers worked with the homeowner to incorporate several antique pieces and worked from there. No detail was overlooked: A bead board was added to the ceiling and batten board to the walls. The designers even included a glass transom light that the homeowner had brought from another historic home in which she had lived.

Inset cabinetry and a farmhouse sink reflect the traditional aesthetic that is right at home in a Southern home. The homeowner selected hand-painted Portuguese tiles for the backsplash to coordinate with the pair of hand-painted Deft and Pewter chandeliers that also came from one of her previous homes.

With the addition complete, the couple is finally settled in the home of their dreams living in Lowcountry elegance. «

LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS DESIGNER:
www.haskellinteriors.com

